Interface Lab Automation System

Our various products have revolutionize any business by incorporating Web Server platform with multi-tier security system for the first time ever and made it much more powerful than the existing software available in the market. Hence providing a greater solution for the day-to-day business need. The software Interface is designed with the adequate security features that no unauthorized user can have access on it. The server computer takes care of the back-end database. Data is stored in a centralized system. No direct manipulations are allowed to the database. Database administrator can make changes if required. One User can access the database from the client node through the software. Multiple clients can share the same database through the feature On-Line Transaction Processing where every user will have up-to-date and refreshed information. Periodic Back-up and on-demand restore is a very flexible and easy job. Minor Troubleshooting can also be done by the efficient EDP in-charge without the help of the software vendor; hence interruption in the on-line data entry process is a rare thing. The software is highly scalable and integrated also. Modular approach made it easier to implement it in different phases. Further up gradation of the software is possible without affecting the existing database. Feasibility factors are also considered which made the software very economic.
